Patriotism- A word so vastly misinterpreted and misrepresented.

Today, we celebrate 'Patriotism' on 15 August and 26 January. The real meaning of the word has undergone a metamorphism. No more are we concerned about the nation, no more do we have the desire to fight corruption, nepotism and other such evils that are corroding our system. We, today, do not understand what patriotism really means. We have to be 'educated' we have to realize that patriotism is not just singing the National Anthem or the National Song. It is also not enough to say that 'We desire to do something for our country'. What is required is our constructive contribution whatever little we can do, for the nation, in our own small ways. This message has been very aptly conveyed by a few newly released Bollywood movies as well. So, let us join hands to participate in what Jawaharlal Nehru referred to as "The Adventure of Nation-building".

SWEET SIXTEEN

20 April is a red-letter day for our school as it celebrates its Foundation Day every year on this date. But this year 20 April holds more significance with the school turning sixteen. And indeed, it was a magnificent sixteenth birthday as the school wore a colourful look, very vibrant and of course, very beautiful. It was a treat to watch the tiny tots singing and dancing to the Birthday song.

'EARTH DAY' CELEBRATED IN A NOVEL WAY

On the occasion of Earth Day, the students pledged to make the world a better place by planting trees and so a brigade comprising of more than 400 students went round the neighbouring residential colonies, on a door to door basis. The rally started from the school with the enthusiastic bandwagon singing parodies, holding placards high up in the air and then going around knocking at the doors of apartments, distributing pamphlets giving useful tips on how to conserve water and make compost. They also handed over a sapling to each resident, telling them how important it was to 'save the environment'. Truly a novel way of celebrating 'Earth Day'! Later, in the month of August our students planted saplings in a nearby park. The message is clear 'Save our Environment and make our city clean and green.'

BUILDING BONDS OF LOVE

The school believes in inculcating in the students the love for humanity and compassion for the less gifted and the underprivileged and to believe in helping their fellowmen at all times and to contribute to the society and so participates in various activities.

One such venture was a visit to an NGO, 'PRERNA NIKETAN SANGH' that supports 41 physically challenged children and also provides education to many slum children who would otherwise be devoid of it. It also organizes a 10 day long camp for physically challenged children in Basti Vikas Kendra, Dwarka, during the vacations. To assist and lend a helping hand in this noble cause the students contributed approximately 260kg wheat flour, 72 lt. cooking oil, 210 kg rice, 150kg sugar, cereals and pulses, when they visited the Sangh on 22 April. Later they also visited the camp and organized games for the children and interacted with them. They learnt the valuable lesson of honouring life in all its hues. The guiding light of the Sangh, Ms. Meenu Saxena left an everlasting impression on the students and developed in them the desire to help others in whatever way they can.

A step further in the same direction was the participation of students in a school-to-school event, PRATIBIMB-organised by another NGO, GOONJ, at St. Mary's Safdarjung Enclave. The two day session comprising of an interesting medley of games, a street play on waste management, a discussion on child labour, a Bal Sabha commenting on the present education system and an interactive session with their rural counterparts from Bihar, Orissa, West Bengal, Uttar Pradesh and Andhra Pradesh, sensitized the students towards the rural students who were determined to carve a niche for themselves despite formidable odds.

Our students also handed over considerable material including clothes, shoes, school bags, tiffin boxes, stationary items, storybooks, toys etc to the volunteers of GOONJ. Some students of Class VIII led by Aparajita Pandey, Shubhra Vats, Maneet Kaur and Puneet Singh have decided to continue making this an ongoing project by contributing in kind on a regular basis to GOONJ.

To lend a helping hand to those large parts of India which were affected by the recent floods the SMS family contributed willingly in cash and kind and a large amount of material including dry rations was collected for the affected regions.

DEMOLITION DRIVE

Buildings Buildings Everywhere,
Shops ! Offices ! Factories !
Thriving in Delhi, Putting life at ease.
Under the watchful eye of MCD,
The buildings grow and flourish,
Multi storeyed plexes, For our eyes to cherish.
Then the devil of justice, Pronounces the great fall,
Down comes the concrete, Giving a blow to one and all!
Demolition closes the doors of livelihood,
The breadwinner protests and cries,
Couldn't there have been a better way,
For justice to be applied?
Yes ! Delhi will become a dream city,
By shattering million dreams,
Common man suffers, a pity !!
The bosses will take the cream.

TSUNAMI

Tsunami, What to write
Pen...., paper, language
Everything is lost now. The destructive waves
Mercilessly swept away a thousand lives.
Dreams, hopes and children unborn
We are the spectators! Before the huge waves
Man is powerless, Science also fails
Language hides its face
Oh! Tsunami what have you taught?
A step of life, Or A step of death?
What remains no one knows
No one dares to know Its God's game
Only He reigns.

TEST

OH! Our Friday test
Please give us some rest
On Friday, you are there
To scare us from Everywhere!
Some times you are easy
But sometimes you make us queasy
When you aren't easy,
We feel very uneasy
When will you go from here?
And let us be free from fear
Please go away from our lives
And let fun take your space here.

A TEEN GENE

A teenager is one who never
Forgets to visit a shopping mall,
And never misses a phone call
One who loves to carry a mobile,
To show off his wealth with
Great style
One who loves to mock others,
But can't bear being teased by
Brothers
One who wanders with buddies
And can never concentrate on his studies
A person who receives his
Allowance on Monday
Spends it all on Tuesday
And borrows again on Wednesday
A teenager is an original
Thinker
And is sure that his parents were never teenagers

IF I WERE INVISIBLE

If i were invisible
My life wouldn't be miserable
Eating, dancing and watching television
Writing exams without revision
Roaming carefree here and there
Nobody of my presence would be aware
No tension of studies at all
Playing along the seashore with a ball
No fighting with any friend
Every rule in the book i could bend
