Adopt the pace of nature: her secret is patience.

Patience is something that many people want to cultivate in their lives but many a times have not felt capable of this. Many times they have flown off the handle or got really frustrated in a situation rather than being calm and kind. Patience has to be cultivated. The best way to cultivate it is when things are not going well. When things are going smoothly in life, it is not the time that we can cultivate patience. Learning to be patient requires things to be not the way you want. When things are tough, this is the prime learning space for cultivating this part of ourselves. We must learn to change situations round - seeing them as an opportunity for growth rather than for stress. By seeing what we can learn rather than what is distressing us, puts us in charge. When things are really tough and we want to give up, remember this one phrase-When all else fails, all I can do is breathe. This is a great way of seeing that sometimes we can make so much out of a situation - and just by keeping it simple - breathing - we regain clarity in our life. We make things more than they are - the mind takes over and we suddenly find ourselves in a really unhappy space. So remember- patience and perseverance have a magical effect before which difficulties disappear and obstacles vanish.

DIWALI CELEBRATION

Diwali gives all a reason to celebrate as the air is filled with festive joy and fervour - everywhere there are celebrations galore. The splendour and warmth of this glorious festival was felt in our school too. The epic 'Ramayana' was enacted by the students of class II and III, which was the main highlight. The portrayal of mythological characters on stage was very real and charismatic. Kuhuk, Aarti and Arshdeep of III standard were outstanding in their portrayal of Ram, Lakshman and Sita. Also, Anushka Sharma in her portrayal of the cunning 'Manthra' was a force to reckon with. The depiction of Ramayana, starting from Lord Rama's fourteen year exile to Sita-haran, Lanka Vinash and the Return of Lord Rama were immaculately dramatized for the viewers.

From costumes to stage-settings to the performance, everything simply fell in place and made for an outstanding watch for the audience. Two dance performances by class II students formed a part of the play and were a treat for the eyes. The efforts of the teachers as well as the students were applauded by our Headmistress, Ms. Sabina Shergill. After this dance drama, the students of IX standard put forth a mesmerizing classical dance on the occasion of Deepavali. With diyas in hand, they performed with aplomb and enchanted the audience. They looked radiant in their traditional dresses and definitely brightened the joyous revelry.

CHILDREN'S DAY REVELRY

Children's Day was celebrated with great enthusiasm in our school on 14 November 2011. According to a famous saying "Of all the arts, none remain as rooted in ritual as dance." Dancing is indeed an integral part of life itself. A child learns to sing even before he can speak, and learns to dance even before he knows how to walk. Music and dance are present in a child's heart from the beginning and it was through music and dance that the students at SMGS celebrated their special day. The students of classes IX and X put forth dance performances to entertain all and definitely brightened the day with their zealous endeavour. The tiny tots of Seedling and Sapling were not left behind and they came dressed up in colourful attire for a party. The students of classes I to V too had a class party. They also exchanged gifts on this special occasion. A Magic Show was specially organized for the juniors on this special day. The students of classes VI and VII too enjoyed the day as they watched "A Christmas Carol" by Charles Dickens. The movie was entertaining and it brought in a mood of joy and gaiety.

Celebrating the spirit of love and childhood- the students of Class X present a dance on Children's Day.

BOOK WEEK 2011

Our efforts to conserve mother nature with our Italian friends in the other part of the world.

PLANTATION DRIVE ON DIWALI

Diwali-The Festival of Lights-has nowadays simply become a night full of crackers, noise and smoke for many people. This Diwali too, the students of SMGS decided to celebrate an Eco-friendly Diwali. The Eco-Champs took out a plantation drive and planted a few saplings in the park adjoining their school. With attractive placards in hand, they spread the message that on Diwali we should clean and decorate our houses as well as plant saplings instead of bursting crackers. As responsible citizens, they understand that by bursting crackers, we scare birds to death, shorten the lives of children who are engaged in cracker factories, trouble asthmatic patients and burn thousands of rupees to ashes in the name of ceremonies. The responsible students of SMGS took upon themselves to help people understand that Goddess Lakshmi does not want us to dispel the darkness of Amavasya this way. They enjoyed Diwali in its purest form by lighting lamps, offering prayers and by making this world a better place by planting saplings.

An effort to make this earth greener.

EFFORTS FOR ENVIRONMENT

Cleanliness is next to Godliness.

Our students contributing old newspapers for recycling

This year our school joined hands with the British Council to protect the environment by participating in the Great Banyan Project. From 1 August to 28 October 2011, the zealous students of our school contributed waste paper for the "A Million Notebook Challenge" initiative, under which paper waste was collected and recycled for making notebooks for the less advantaged children. Further, they also took out the Cleanest Day Drive on 30 September 2011. The students along with their parents, made a humble endeavour to clean their surroundings as they are concerned about the squalor that is accumulated on the roadsides, making them a dumpster. The parents and the students helped each other in a syndicate manner to clean the commercial place adjacent to the school. The volunteers made a sincere attempt to spread awareness to help keep the surroundings clean. Two link schools of SMGS also carried out such cleanliness drives in their respective countries namely, Sekolah Menengah Sains Muzaffar School, Melako Malaysia and ITG Deledda Via Rismondo 6, I-634 133 Trieste, Italy.
